Cuban Invasion

I have just read the report of the Cuban invasion at the Bay of Pigs, written by one of the invaders, Manuel Penabaz. This report makes me hang my head in shame at the heartless and cruel way in which our government let these brave men down, after training them and promising them that they would have our needed support in air cover. The question as to why this was withdrawn is still unanswered.

The pressure put on drug corporations and other business houses by members of the administration to donate supplies wanted by Castro, as payment of blackmail demanded by him for the release of prisoners, is a far cry from our earlier history, when "millions for defense, but not one cent for tribute" was our slogan.
